

Franck Dubarry and Margaret Ma, pictured with David Mezenen, business development director for Asia/Pacific, team up in China

Global Jet's Chinese venture brings local resources

Global Jet of Switzerland has teamed up with the Jinggong Group of China to strengthen its aviation business in Asia. Jinggong Global Jet Co is headquartered at Hangzhou Xiaoshan international airport and is home to more than 20 management and service staff as well as a technical team. The company is led by French ceo Franck Dubarry and Chinese chair Margaret Ma. Dubarry says: "We are the best representation for this new company. Margaret is Asian, I'm European, and we both bring our own knowledge of the aviation industry. Our aim is to provide customers the local resources of Jinggong Group and the international experience of Global Jet."

K5-Aviation receives US overflight exemption

K5-Aviation GmbH, based in Germany, has received US Border Overflight Exemption (BOE) for flights returning to the US from south of the border. Effective immediately, it covers flights arriving into the USA from the Caribbean, Mexico, Central and South America and French Polynesia. K-5's clients will benefit by avoiding unnecessary stops and delays at busy border airports of entry. For crew and passengers this will result in a more efficient journey, and it will also result in improved operational flexibility and cost savings.